

486 West Page Hager Road
Cleveland, NC 27013
704.872.7761 voice
704.880.0203 mobile
704.872.6199 fax

info@coolspring.com
www.coolspring.com

CHARLOTTE, NC
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
September 13, 2006

Charles Page, President and Lead Facilitator of Cool Spring Center, Inc., has been invited as a presenter to the Diversity Council of the Carolinas' 6th Annual Diversity Conference, September 13, 2006, at the Charlotte Convention Center in Charlotte. Page's workshop topic is Understanding Other Perspectives and Showing Leadership in a Diverse Workforce Environment.

Page will explore the process that helps draw out our knowledge, feelings and understanding of the variety of human qualities basic to the people with whom we work. He will explore four areas important in shaping our attitudes toward diversity: knowledge, understanding, acceptance and behavior. He will also present techniques and actions we can take to develop and improve interpersonal relations.

The focus of the Diversity Council of the Carolinas is the workplace--the place where diverse individuals come together to do business, offer services, create goods and capital, educate and govern, and provide the energy and initiative that drive the economy of our region. Diversity initiatives in the workplace make our businesses stronger, our community more inclusive and increase the capacity of all individuals to contribute. By encouraging individuals (and through them, organizations and institutions) to value and strengthen diversity, our community as a whole is strengthened and its citizenry valued.

Cool Spring Center works with companies and organizations that want to develop and implement sustained improvement in the workplace.

For more information contact:

Cool Spring Center, Inc.
486 W. Page Hager Road
Cleveland, NC 27013
704-872-7761
info@coolspring.com
www.coolspring.com